Irish Taxpayers Duped Out of Millions by the Bill, Hillary & Chelsea Clinton "Slush Fund" Foundation

Irish taxpayers have given millions of euro to the Clinton Foundation via Irish Aid ostensibly to combat AIDS in Mozambique daughter Chelsea has revealed it to be no more than an elaborate slush fund whose main purpose is to enrich the Clintons and their associates with humanitarian efforts taking a backseat.

This is evident from the foundation's spending. According to their 2013 financial filings, of the $140 million in grants and pledges they received, a mere $9 million of this was spent on direct aid (that's 6.4%) with the remainder spent on huge salaries and bonuses, travel and administration with the most money going to the Clinton's closest associates.

According to a March 2013 Dáil Public Accounts Committee report, the Irish Government via Irish Aid has given 12 million to the Foundation's Clinton Health Access Initiative to combat AIDS in Mozambique in 2012 alone.

Irish taxpayers are continuing to give millions to the Clinton Foundation through the same initiative according to the Irish Aid website and will do so until 2016 under the "Mozambique Country Strategy Plan 2012-2016."

It's time for the Irish Government to stop funding the dubious Clinton Foundation, which is now on a watchlist of shady charities

. The aid money can be better spend without first being funnelled through the Clinton Foundation which soaks up the vast majority of cash for purposes other than direct aid.

Just wondering but if we "contributed" more per head than any other state on the planet, does this mean that we "punched above our weight" ?

Coveney's ambition is the be Ireland's next EU Commissar and Ireland will pay a price as he builds his CV to position himself sufficiently loyal to the nEU empire.

6.4% was direct aid? Is Bono on their board?

Irish Aid is rotten to the core anyway as far as I can see

- so this kind of thing is par for the course

They probably would not understand what all the fuss is about IMO

Check this out where I delved into one such case

I have a proposal. How about the Irish banks come together to institute the Charles J Haughey International Award for Politics.

A bit like the Scandinavians have the Nobel Prize etc...

The Grand Ceremony can occur in the Cowen Can, the AngloBondholder Stadium or perhaps the DOB Centre for Science (he never studied science) in Belfield.

Grand prize, a cheque made out....as Pee Flynn would have preferred...to "Cash". Or maybe instead the winner could be given the inside line from Da Bert, on how to win big on the nags.

The Clintons would be favourites to win. And even if they weren't favourites, our politicians could always sell it to them.

Coveney's ambition is the be Ireland's next EU Commissar and Ireland will pay a price as he builds his CV to position himself sufficiently loyal to the nEU empire.

Irish people do learn their lessons. Just seems we learn them slightly harder than others. Which is a shame.

Shades of that one from REHAB grinning to herself when refusing to detail her salary which she essentially milked from sick kids while claiming she was "worth it" and that she "graciously declined" an added bonus.

What takes the cake for me is the lad skimming money from Crumlin Children's Hospital to line his own pockets.

This debacle casts a further shadow over the Clinton's. Undoubtedly not a mistake by the US Media given Clinton's presidential hopes.

This is yet another legacy of the Drumcondra Guttersnipe's reign of corruption.

"Taoiseach and President Clinton sign €70 million agreement to fight HIV/AIDS in Africa

Today Taoiseach Bertie Ahern, T.D., and President Bill Clinton signed a new agreement to fight HIV/AIDS in Africa.

Under this new agreement funding for Mozambique will reach €60 million over the next five years. Funding for Lesotho will reach €10 million over the same period.

This new agreement will make Ireland the largest country donor to the Clinton Foundation HIV/AIDS Initiative."

If any SF supporters read this please note your Party's stated policy is not to decrease the amount on IA but to increase it

- to ONE BILLION EUROS per annum!!!

Somewhere in this debacle, Ahern will be found with his hand sticking out, maybe the IRS will disclose and publicise all, it certainly stinks.

By Jaysus, that's some cast of characters. Has Stanley seen this yet? Can't wait for his observations. For my money, the one on the right, now ensconced among Russia's finest has to be the actual prize exhibit, notwithstanding the pedigree of the other three reprobates.

Ah, they're only ould balloons "Mrs Browne" left after him somewhere. She's not really that fat. Noteworthy too are the photos of those other icons of probity, Mr Shane Ross and our old friend Stumpy Fleming.

There is a very good editorial in the WSJ today wondering why this foundation/slush fund is not at least being investigated by the Department of Justice

Of Christie and Clinton - WSJ

A federal prosecutor handed up indictments Friday in New Jersey's bridge-closure scandal after a 16-month probe. Gov. Chris Christie wasn't implicated, but the investigation has damaged his political standing Start with Canadian mining executives and business partners, Ian Telfer and Frank Giustra, who donated millions to the Clinton Foundation in the years leading up to, and during, a government review of a uranium mine deal in which Mr. Telfer's company stood to benefit. Mrs. Clinton was one of several government officials on a committee that approved the sale of the mines to the Russians.

Bill Clinton was invited at about the same time to give a speech in Moscow by a bank with ties to the Kremlin and the mining company. He was paid $500,000.

At least 60 companies that lobbied the State Department during her tenure donated a total of more than $26 million to the Clinton Foundation, according to the Journal's analysis of public and foundation disclosures.

The piece gives a number of other instances where corruption was probed where there was alleged influence peddling but the influence didn't materialize. It goes on to state as below that the FBI doesn't need political permission, is independent and can start their own investigations.

The FBI doesn't need political permission to begin an investigation. And notably the FBI probe of Mr. Petraeus began based on nothing more than a complaint from a woman in Florida concerning emails she regarded as harassment from Mr. Petraeus's biographer.

There's already far more on the public record involving foreign influence-peddling and the Clinton Foundation.

So the figure of 6% 'direct aid' excludes the money paid to employ aid workers?
